Salem Voters Also May Be Asked To Pass Judgement On Schools Construction

Bond issues to cover cost of construction of a new City hall and of an addition to the Memorial building to provide increased recreational facilities will go before the voters of Salem at the November election, if present plans materialize.

Another bond issue, which may be presented at a special election, to provide for a public school building program also is a possibility.

Of the three, definite plans for a new City hall have been started by city council. The Memorial building project is in the discussion stage, and the school program is likely to get consideration of the board of education soon.

FIVE PERISHED IN SHIP BLAST

Cause Of Destroyer Explosion Unknown; 150 Others Injured

(By Associated Press)

EARLE, N. J., May 1.—The destroyer escort Solar, its bow ripped off and twisted grotesquely over the 300-foot warship by the force of three explosions, lay blackened and a total loss today alongside the U. S. Navy's huge Earle ammunition depot pier in lower New York bay.

Five crew members were reported missing and 150 injured, five critically, in the explosions yesterday which detonated an ammunition-laden railroad car on the pier, destroying a pier-based warehouse, set fire to the pier itself and left a gaping hole in the concrete structure which juts two and a half miles into the bay.

The third naval district public information office in New York said the next of kin of those missing and badly injured were notified during the night, and a casualty list would be released today.

In addition to the five missing, five others today were considered in a critical condition, and 30 were injured seriously.

A Navy investigation board, headed by Admiral Paul F. Porter, navy inspector general, began an immediate probe of the disaster and was scheduled to meet again today.

An official statement by the U. S. Navy Third naval district public relations office said the cause of the blasts was unknown.

Forrestal Says Merger Plan Hits Marine Corps

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Secretary of the Navy Forrestal declared today "outright abolishment of the Marine corps" was a possibility under the proposed legislation to merge the Army and the Navy.

While maintaining that the Navy was in favor of "practical improvement in the coordination of the armed services" he warned the senate naval committee against (1) concentration of power in the hands of one man, (2) the idea of "merging now and organize later, and (3) curtailing naval aviation and the Marine corps.

Discussing a measure approved by the senate military committee, Forrestal said:

"The bill would permit outright abolishment of the Marine corps, or, worse, its reduction to a position of complete ineffectiveness."

He said the British navy's lack of an amphibious force when Germany invaded Norway resulted in "the Narvik disaster."

STALIN WARNS OF THREATS TO WORLD PEACE

Hits International Intrigue, Calls For Strong Armed Forces

BY REMBERT JAMES

MOSCOW, May 1.—A colorful demonstration by hundreds of thousands of Moscow's workers and a long parade by soldiers, sailors and airmen, advised by Generalissimo Stalin not to forget for a minute "the intrigues of international reaction which is hatching plans of a new war," marked the Soviet union's observance of May day today.

Although the Soviet leader gave first place in his order of the day to "our valiant armed forces," he told his people:

"There is no reason to doubt that in the future the Soviet union will be true to its policy—the policy of peace and security, the policy of equality and friendship of the peoples."

Stalin exhorted the Russian armed forces to remain strong and increase their effectiveness by lessons learned from the war "on the basis of development of science and technique," but it was noted that the traditional military parade before Lenin's tomb in the Red square was cut a half hour from the regular two-hour review.

"Now our armed forces are faced with a task of no less importance—vigilantly to guard the peace which was won and the constructive labor of the Soviet people, to be the reliable bulwark of the interest of the Soviet union."

"The successful accomplishment of this honorable task is possible only on condition of further growth of military culture and military skill of the officers and men of our army, our navy and our aviation."

Stalin urged Russian workers to reach and even exceed the goals set in the nation's new five-year plan.

"Developing peaceful socialist construction," Stalin's order declared, "we should not forget for a minute the intrigues of international reaction, which is hatching plans of a new war. It is necessary to remember the teaching of the great Lenin to the effect that after switching over to peaceful labor, it is necessary to be constantly vigilant, to protect as the apple of one's eye the armed forces and defensive powers of our country."

"The armed forces of the Soviet union must daily improve their military art on the basis of experience of war, on the basis of the atomic bomb."

British Scientist Given 10-Year Term

He pleaded guilty.

The 34-year-old May, who was arrested last March, was accused specifically of communicating "to some person unknown certain information calculated to be, or which might be directly or indirectly, useful to an enemy."

The "enemy" was not specified, the prosecution declaring merely that it might be "any potential enemy."

His arrest followed closely the launching of a Canadian investigation into alleged Soviet espionage activities which Canadian Prime Minister Mackenzie King said extended through the dominion into the United States and Britain.

Where Interests Clash

Behind the present day problem lies the taut-drawn clash of interest between the Jews and Arabs, entering around Jewish demands for establishment of a national home, and Arab contentions that the committee's action was taken against the immediate background of President Truman's request six months ago for emergency immigration of 100,000 homeless Jewish victims of Axis persecution—a request later rejected by Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Britain. The two governments then formed the joint committee.

Byrnes, Molotov Clash On Future Control Of Italy

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, May 1.—Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov and U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes clashed in the question of the future Allied control of Italy today as the Foreign Ministers council turned thumbs down on Austria's plea for return of the southern Tyrol by Italy.

A qualified conference source said the Soviet minister sharply opposed Byrnes' proposal for a single general commission to supervise the carrying out of the Italian treaty provisions on the ground that it would be an infringement of Italian sovereignty.

Byrnes was said to have retorted that it was no more of an infringement than the treaty itself.

Reverses Soviet Policy

Molotov reversed the Soviet policy followed at last September's council meeting at which the Russians voted with their colleagues to set up only military control commissions.

At this morning's session, over which he presided, Molotov came out in favor of no commission at all.

The ministers were discussing the last of 11 points of disagreement over the Italian treaty.

The ministers decided to hold their next meeting tomorrow morning and to cancel a scheduled session this afternoon. Their deputies will meet this afternoon to set an agenda.

A conference source said both sessions tomorrow probably would be devoted to attempts to clear up minor points of difference on the Italian treaty.

In considering the Austrian-Italian border question, the deputies decided that the Austrian request for return of the South Tyrol, ceded to Italy after the first World war, was a major frontier rectification which the council had decided against last September.

The question arose at the meeting of the ministers yesterday whether the request was a major or minor border change and the matter was handed over to the deputies.

New York Financier Sued For $1,000,000

NEW YORK, May 1.—A $1,000,000 damage suit has been filed in supreme court against Serge Rubinstein, financier, and 19 companies in which he allegedly is interested by the estate of his late brother Andre Rubinstein.

The suit was filed yesterday by Andre's widow, Valerie Rubinstein, who charged her brother-in-law and the firms with conspiracy to "maliciously and wilfully cheat and defraud" her husband of certain commissions and profits paid and payable to Konrad Szykold, a defendant not otherwise identified, to which Andre was entitled through an agreement with Szykold.

Serge recently was charged with conspiracy to evade the draft. The U. S. district court imposed a $500,000 bail—the highest ever fixed by the court here. He has until Friday to post the bail.

His sister-in-law charged in the suit that Andre and Szykold entered an agreement in London in December, 1945, in which Andre consented to relinquish his post with Chosen, Corp. Ltd., one of the corporate defendants, to Szykold, in return for one-third of all the latter's commissions and profits. Serge, she said, was to act as trustee for the commissions.

She further charged her husband was paid only $3,825, although Szykold completed many profitable transactions, including "the removal from Japan during the years 1936, 1937 and 1938 for the account of Serge Rubinstein Chosen Corp. Ltd. or other companies owned or controlled by defendant Serge Rubinstein, or in which he had an interest, of upwards of 3,000,000 Japanese yen in cash and also a draft in the amount of 1,192,485 yen."

Mrs. Rubinstein said that from this transaction alone, Szykold made approximately $300,000 in commissions and profits.

Msgr. Hagan Named Auxiliary Bishop

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, May 1.—The Cleveland Catholic diocese today had a new auxiliary bishop. He is Msgr. John R. Hagan, diocesan superintendent of schools and vice chairman of the board of Catholic education.

His appointment as auxiliary to Bishop Edward F. Hoban was announced in Washington last night by Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States. Bishop-elect Hagan will carry the title of titular Bishop of Linate.

A native of Pittsburgh, the 56-year-old bishop-elect moved to Cleveland when he was two and a half years old. When he was graduated from St. Ignatius High school he was chosen to go to Rome and complete his studies at the North American college.

He was ordained March 7, 1914. Bishop-elect Hagan served as assistant at St. Augustine's and St. Patrick's in Cleveland and on Jan. 1, 1923, was named superintendent of diocesan schools.

On Nov. 11, 1934, Bishop-elect Hagan was named a domestic prelate, and on July 27, 1938, he became vice chairman of the board of Catholic education.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT GIVEN TO G. BRITAIN

Holy Land Would Neither Become Jewish State Nor Arab State

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
WASHINGTON, May 1.—The explosive-packed recommendation that 100,000 persecuted Jews be admitted to Palestine at once ticked away ominously today on Britain's doorstep.

In dropping it there, the official Anglo-American committee on Palestine held at the same time the strife-torn Holy Land must become "neither a Jewish state nor an Arab state."

Immediate reaction to the committee's proposals for the British mandate ranged from qualified Jewish approval of the emergency immigration plan to a blistering indictment from Arab leaders.

In Jerusalem, where there long have been repeated outbreaks of bloody violence, the Arab office said the report would intensify this strife and drive "the entire Middle East into the bosom of Soviet Russia."

Arabs Flay Proposal

The Arab statement termed the recommendations "high treason to democracy and a grave betrayal of justice."

In London, the Jewish Agency for Palestine pledged cooperation with the plan to admit 100,000 Jews now but protested that the central problem of stateless Jews in Europe. The number of these has been placed by Jewish spokesmen at more than 1,000,000.

The problem presented by the report is primarily one for Britain to handle because that country since 1922 has held a League of Nations mandate over Palestine.

There was no provision in the joint inquiry committee's instructions making its recommendations binding upon either Britain or the United States.

The committee's action was taken against the immediate background of President Truman's request six months ago for emergency immigration of 100,000 homeless Jewish victims of Axis persecution—a request later rejected by Prime Minister Clement Attlee of Britain. The two governments then formed the joint committee.

Where Interests Clash

Behind the present day problem lies the taut-drawn clash of interest between the Jews and Arabs, "entering" under Jewish demands "for establishment of a national home, and Arab contentions that the Holy Land would neither become Jewish state nor Arab state."

What Mr. Lewis Wants

John L. Lewis' decision not to tell mine operators what he wants until the United Mine Workers strike has created a coal crisis may be a cute new wrinkle in bargaining by bludgeoning—but it is not, as some are calling it, a mystery.

There is no mystery about what Mr. Lewis wants. His objectives are obvious. He wants to maintain himself as an outstanding individual in the union movement. He wants to win the coal strike he is bossing in a way that will increase his prestige. He wants to get all the publicity this is worth, against the time when he will make his next move, which is expected to be leadership of the American Federation of Labor. In all these things he is receiving complete cooperation. And when the time comes, the Truman administration probably will do a nip-up for his pleasure, which is another thing he wants.

As We Say, Not As We Do

Promotion of labor unions among Germans and Japanese is part of United States' occupation policy, explains the State department. Development of unions, it is believed, will help to train our defeated enemies in the practice of democracy.

In this respect, however, it might be well for the Germans and Japanese to do as we say, not as we do. There are labor unions in the United States that are ideal exponents of popular sovereignty. But there are labor unions in the United States that honor democracy only in the breach.

It is a paradox that many Americans are afraid of some of the things labor unions are capable of doing, yet are not afraid of the members of labor unions. They have implicit confidence in the judgment and integrity of individuals, but no confidence at all in the judgment and integrity of some of the strong men who have learned how to exploit the labor union movement. The exploitation ranges from playing for political advantage to conducting palpable and unashamed rackets. Wherever it occurs—wherever labor unions are used to promote something besides the welfare of their members—there has ceased to be democracy and started to be a form of despotism. The Germans and the Japanese, if they're lucky, will be spared the despotism.

Hirohito Had A Busy Day

Through oversight, no doubt, there was no report of Emperor Hirohito's activities on the day 28 of his countrymen were indicted by the Allies as war criminals. Presumably, he had a busy day, visiting factories, hospitals and building the new tradition of the kindly Japanese monarch who looks after his flock.

It is evident now that this solemn little man in whose name were committed some of the bloodiest deeds of this bloody century must never have been more than a stuffed kimono jerked by wires to fool the people. That is the Allies' estimate of his position. Otherwise, his name would lead all the rest in the war crimes indictment.

As in most things about Japan, there is no way to know what the Japanese are thinking about their emperor in his postwar role of figurehead. But they are not political morons; they can comprehend that the belittlement of Hirohito is now complete. After a war fought in his name and with his supposed blessing, he is not even listed as a war criminal by the former enemy.

In the opinion of Japan's conquerors, Emperor Hirohito had no more to do with World War II than one of his daughters.

Sincerity Test

One of the curious facts about the OPA dilemma is the way some of the people with the most to say in its favor do the least in its behalf. They talk loud, but they flunk the sincerity test.

The United States usually gets about what it deserves in the way of enforcement. Doing the noble experiment with prohibition, enforcement broke down because too many citizens were helping illegal dealers in alcoholic beverages to break it down. It finally became a question of what to do about bootleggers and their high-explosive rackets, instead of what to do with the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act. Public opinion had settled that issue. Repeal of the amendment and suspension of the legislation that had grown out of it were an anticlimax.

In its present form, OPA now has two more months to go. If in the meantime it is continued in anything like its present form after June 30, there may be another year, perhaps even longer, of OPA authority over the nation's price structure. Existence of authority, however, will not guarantee results, any more than existence of the Volstead Act guaranteed results. It is not lawmakers who decide these things, but people. OPA's fate is being settled day by day in what people do, by the way they deal in black markets, by their reaction to shortages of commodities, by a thousand little things that Washington could not control if it had 10 times as many enforcement agents as it can muster at present. By the time existing authority for OPA expires next June 30, the question of renewing it for another nine months or a year may be a dead issue, already disposed of by public opinion.

Butter, Not Guns

"The Army set-asides (on butter) may range up to 20 per cent," says the United Press in a story on the possibility of our sending fats and oils to the underfed people of other lands. We hope that the estimate will prove to be incorrect.

The Army, with its demobilization rate ahead of schedule, is nearing the point where its personnel will represent little more than 1 per cent of the country's population. A requisitioning of 20 per cent, or even 5 per cent, of the butter supply would be ridiculous.

Man can live by bread alone, at least for a time, if he has to. To give the hungry people of the world enough bread for survival is the most immediate and pressing problem today. But wheat alone is not bread. Wheat and water make paste, not food. There must be fats and oils to go with the grain which is being sought so frantically.

The American soldier and the American civilian can and should be fed adequately. But the Quartermaster Corps is now buying for a smaller force. The danger of loss of foodstuffs by enemy action is past. Army buying must be scaled down to a reasonable proportion.

For the Army and all the rest of us are now engaged with a war against hunger, a war that—to reverse Hermann Goering's slogan—must be won with such things as butter, not guns.

Repentant Sinner

It may be doubted that there is much rejoicing in heaven over the repentance of the sinner named Hans Frank, who admitted at the Nuremberg trial that he shared responsibility for Nazi atrocities, and that he felt guilty and ashamed.

Frank, the Nazi governor-general of Poland, was instrumental in the torture and murder of millions. It was a calculated, cold-blooded, continuing operation. And, somehow, this belated admission of guilt, this tardy confession that "I'm sorry," isn't quite enough. The stubborn loyalty of a Goering to his brutal, insane philosophy, repulsive as it is, seems a more honest and a slightly less nauseating attitude.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, May 2.

HARD WORK and plenty of it turn the tide of routine affairs into lasting and far-reaching rewards and benefits, with prolific and soundly progressive results on the life and its worthy objectives.

Impelled by a sense of duty and obligation, a program of diligence, perseverance, perhaps patience, aiming at far-off benefits with future prospects should be formed, keeping in mind present tangible returns. Firm foundations, loyalty and enduring values should actuate all efforts.

Those whose birthday it is should make it a point to work with diligence, industry, devotion and sound purpose, during the year, laying foundations for future security and long-range advantages rather than present tangible assets. Imbued by fervent sense of duty and obligation, with patience, fortitude and determination, it is likely that splendid returns may offer safety, enduring comfort and good fortune, with possessions of genuine worth. There is personal happiness and security for self and others whose wellbeing is desirable.

A child born on this day will have excellent abilities for a sound and enduring future.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Editor, The News:

As a group, outside their classrooms, teachers are timid people. For one thing, they are reluctant to press their right to better pay. While it is true that in a few large cities salaries are respectable, elsewhere they lag far behind the higher requirements and increased responsibilities of the profession.

Consider what we expect of our modern teachers. We want them to be college graduates with special training for teaching. We expect them to study, travel and attend lectures the rest of their lives. We trust they will safeguard their health and happiness in order to keep serene, patient and understanding. We even expect them to look prosperous. We like them to be leaders in the community. We set no limit to their hours.

Teachers in small school systems really carry a heavier individual responsibility than their better-paid colleagues in the big cities. The spotlight of public attention is on their every move.

As far as the difference in cost of living is concerned, I have found it to be largely a matter of personal choice and management. We pay a few dollars less per month for taxes in Salem, but we may spend more than that for private garbage and waste collection, private kindergarten, for taxis and traveling to distant sources of recreation and cultural advancement.

Telephone rates may be cheap, but water is not only hard but expensive.

Steel workers in Salem expect the same hourly rate as their co-workers in Youngstown and Pittsburgh. Yet, if my information is not far wrong, the average teacher in Cincinnati earns about twice as much as the average teacher in Salem. And Cleveland pays more than Cincinnati.

I should like to see in print the average take-home pay for Salem teachers computed on the basis of 52 weeks in a year. I believe it is not more than $30 a week.

All of us should consider whether that is adequate pay for the quality of service expected and received. What is more important, we should ponder whether such pay will fill future teaching jobs with capable and high-minded men and women.

The present shortage of qualified teachers is critical, and the number in training has been decreasing. Men teachers were scarce years before the war. Now, ambitious career girls find fascinating and better-paying jobs in other fields than teaching.

The problem of adequate pay for our teachers goes beyond the pressure of the current rise in living costs. It is a matter of belated recognition of the modern profession of teaching.

Bad Posture And Inflammation Of Spine

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE spine might be called a series of joints. Like the bigger joints elsewhere in the body, those of the spine may become inflamed. This inflamed condition is known as osteoarthritis.

As a rule, osteoarthritis develops only in older people. Not only are the joints inflamed, but some overgrowth of the bone occurs so that there is stiffness as well as pain. This fact also makes an X-ray of the spine of great usefulness in diagnosing this disease.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of osteoarthritis of the spine is not known. According to Doctor Ernest Fletcher of England, infection in the teeth, tonsils and sinuses is not, as a rule, a factor in producing the disorder. Poor posture, he thinks, often plays a great part not only in producing the disorder but in aggravating the symptoms.

Persons with osteoarthritis of the spine do not get along well if they take a great deal of exercise. However, once the weight is taken off the spine, movements seem to be of help. This can be attained in part by exercise taken in bed. What are known as passive movements with the muscles relaxed are also of benefit. For example, the patient may lie down while the physician moves the patient's head from side to side. This is done very gently and carefully.

Another Exercise

Another exercise is to have the patient lie on his abdomen and then to give gentle twisting movements to the upper part of the spine. An exercise which the patient may take himself is to have him lie down with his legs held down by the bedclothes. The patient leans forward and then tries to touch his toes with his fingers. This exercise may be repeated several times.

Heat and massage may be of some slight benefit. Perhaps the most important part of the treatment is to correct the patient's posture. This means that the patient when standing, should carry about as much weight on his heels as on the front part of the foot. There should be as little bending as possible at the hips and the knees should be straight.

If there are any abnormal curves in the spine these may have to be corrected by braces or casts.

Repentant Sinner

It may be doubted that there is much rejoicing in heaven over the repentance of the sinner named Hans Frank, who admitted at the Nuremberg trial that he shared responsibility for Nazi atrocities, and that he felt guilty and ashamed.

Frank, the Nazi governor-general of Poland, was instrumental in the torture and murder of millions. It was a calculated, cold-blooded, continuing operation. And, somehow, this belated admission of guilt, this tardy confession that "I'm sorry," isn't quite enough. The stubborn loyalty of a Goering to his brutal, insane philosophy, repulsive as it is, seems a more honest and a slightly less nauseating attitude.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, May 2.

HARD WORK and plenty of it turn the tide of routine affairs into lasting and far-reaching rewards and benefits, with prolific and soundly progressive results on the life and its worthy objectives.

Impelled by a sense of duty and obligation, a program of diligence, perseverance, perhaps patience, aiming at far-off benefits with future prospects should be formed, keeping in mind present tangible returns. Firm foundations, loyalty and enduring values should actuate all efforts.

Those whose birthday it is should make it a point to work with diligence, industry, devotion and sound purpose, during the year, laying foundations for future security and long-range advantages rather than present tangible assets. Imbued by fervent sense of duty and obligation, with patience, fortitude and determination, it is likely that splendid returns may offer safety, enduring comfort and good fortune, with possessions of genuine worth. There is personal happiness and security for self and others whose wellbeing is desirable.

A child born on this day will have excellent abilities for a sound and enduring future.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Editor, The News:

As a group, outside their classrooms, teachers are timid people. For one thing, they are reluctant to press their right to better pay. While it is true that in a few large cities salaries are respectable, elsewhere they lag far behind the higher requirements and increased responsibilities of the profession.

Consider what we expect of our modern teachers. We want them to be college graduates with special training for teaching. We expect them to study, travel and attend lectures the rest of their lives. We trust they will safeguard their health and happiness in order to keep serene, patient and understanding. We even expect them to look prosperous. We like them to be leaders in the community. We set no limit to their hours.

Teachers in small school systems really carry a heavier individual responsibility than their better-paid colleagues in the big cities. The spotlight of public attention is on their every move.

As far as the difference in cost of living is concerned, I have found it to be largely a matter of personal choice and management. We pay a few dollars less per month for taxes in Salem, but we may spend more than that for private garbage and waste collection, private kindergartens, for taxis and traveling to distant sources of recreation and cultural advancement.

Telephone rates may be cheap, but water is not only hard but expensive.

Steel workers in Salem expect the same hourly rate as their co-workers in Youngstown and Pittsburgh. Yet, if my information is not far wrong, the average teacher in Cincinnati earns about twice as much as the average teacher in Salem. And Cleveland pays more than Cincinnati.

I should like to see in print the average take-home pay for Salem teachers computed on the basis of 52 weeks in a year. I believe it is not more than $30 a week.

All of us should consider whether that is adequate pay for the quality of service expected and received. What is more important, we should ponder whether such pay will fill future teaching jobs with capable and high-minded men and women.

The present shortage of qualified teachers is critical, and the number in training has been decreasing. Men teachers were scarce years before the war. Now, ambitious career girls find fascinating and better-paying jobs in other fields than teaching.

The problem of adequate pay for our teachers goes beyond the pressure of the current rise in living costs. It is a matter of belated recognition of the modern profession of teaching.

Bad Posture And Inflammation Of Spine

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE spine might be called a series of joints. Like the bigger joints elsewhere in the body, those of the spine may become inflamed. This inflamed condition is known as osteoarthritis.

As a rule, osteoarthritis develops only in older people. Not only are the joints inflamed, but some overgrowth of the bone occurs so that there is stiffness as well as pain. This fact also makes an X-ray of the spine of great usefulness in diagnosing this disease.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of osteoarthritis of the spine is not known. According to Doctor Ernest Fletcher of England, infection in the teeth, tonsils and sinuses is not, as a rule, a factor in producing the disorder. Poor posture, he thinks, often plays a great part not only in producing the disorder but in aggravating the symptoms.

Persons with osteoarthritis of the spine do not get along well if they take a great deal of exercise. However, once the weight is taken off the spine, movements seem to be of help. This can be attained in part by exercise taken in bed. What are known as passive movements with the muscles relaxed are also of benefit. For example, the patient may lie down while the physician moves the patient's head from side to side. This is done very gently and carefully.

Another Exercise

Another exercise is to have the patient lie on his abdomen and then to give gentle twisting movements to the upper part of the spine. An exercise which the patient may take himself is to have him lie down with his legs held down by the bedclothes. The patient leans forward and then tries to touch his toes with his fingers. This exercise may be repeated several times.

Heat and massage may be of some slight benefit. Perhaps the most important part of the treatment is to correct the patient's posture. This means that the patient when standing should carry about as much weight on his heels as on the front part of the foot. There should be as little bending as possible at the hips and the knees should be straight.

If there are any abnormal curves in the spine these may have to be corrected by braces or casts.

Of course, these measures can not be expected to cure the osteoarthritis but they should give some relief from symptoms.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The smashing victory of Germany's political party, the Christian Social Union, in the council elections in the American zone, should be recognized for what it really is—a triumph of Christian principles over the evils of Hitlerism which still eat at the vitals of the Reich.

That's vastly important, for this plague can only be eradicated by moral rehabilitation. You can keep the malefactors quiet by armed might, and you may achieve the moral demilitarization of Germany through a four-power pact much as the United States proposes, but you can't reform the Nazis that way. Reform must come through a change of heart.

This political development is doubly important because Germany has lost its moral grip as a result of the war. The striking success of the Christian Social Union in Germany, which is the center of the plague, gives hope that there

I encouraged this politico-religious movement when I was in Germany two months ago. It was getting well under way then and represented the combination which its name indicates—people who subscribe to the tenets of Christianity. It isn't a question of denomination. It isn't Catholics and Protestants—and undoubtedly any others who subscribe to this code of right—have joined hands, and the whole emphasis is laid on the Christian principles.

Efforts Are Utilized

I found the military authorities in both the American and the British zones utilizing fully the fervor of these workers for moral rehabilitation.

At that time there had been no real test of strength at the polls, but it certainly is encouraging to see that they have won such an overwhelming battle with the balance Hitler deliberately set out to depress his people, and he succeeded with a huge section of them, but obviously there were many staunch citizens whom he didn't corrupt, and they now form the nucleus of an army of moral rehabilitation.

This combination of the religions for the eradication of Hitlerism doesn't mean, of course, that the denominational work has been suspended.

We had, for instance, the announcement a couple of weeks ago by the American military government that the famous pastor, Martin Niemöller, expected to lead a reform movement throughout German Protestantism to eradicate all vestiges of Nazi control.

The Catholic church with its big German membership also is continuing denominational activities. But for the purposes of political work these two great religious bodies are giving the world a fine demonstration of cooperation for the universal welfare.

Delays Are Injurious

Pastor Niemöller has declared that he thinks delays by the Allies in determining Germany's future are the greatest obstacle to destroying the last of Nazism. He says some younger Germans "are clinging to national socialism like a man in the open sea clings to a plank not because it is a very strong plank but because it is all he has. The young people just do not see the other plank. They must be shown something which makes democracy alluring."

Maybe, but that isn't the whole story by a long shot. It's quite as much a matter of moral collapse as it is of political uncertainty, as I see it. And, as already remarked, Germany isn't alone on the continent in this moral sickness.

Subject Of Pigeons Still Arouses Wrath In Federal Office

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Anyone who mentions pigeons around the War Assets Administration these days gets the bird.

The Bronx bird, that is. Although the last pigeon has fluttered out of the War Assets Administration's life, the memory and the correspondence, linger on. It's a sad story, so grab your handkerchief.

Last fall the Signal corps decided 20,000 of its little message-toters no longer were needed. So the government began peddling its pigeons.

By the middle of February, 1,561 pairs had been sold for $6,055.

Well done, you say. But hold on a moment. An average appetized pigeon will stow away $4.92 worth of groceries a year. The 17,000 pigeons the government still had cost $6,970 a month for food alone.

Drastic Action Taken
Trying to wipe the red ink off their fingers, the War Assets people decided on drastic action.

"We'll give them away," they cried, "but hurriedly. Every customer must take at least 20."

And what happened?
"We got more than 14,000 letters," the pigeon publicity girl sadly told a reporter. "As near as we can figure, they asked for 300,000 pigeons."

That's not the worst of it. We plainly pointed out that the pigeons were all at army camps. But 300 people shipped old crates direct to us here, and asked us to fill them up with pigeons."

The pigeon publicity girl added that the War Assets Administration has been packing away faithfully, but still has a bushel of letters to answer.

She said she didn't know exactly how many. No, there was no one she could ask.

"You see," she explained, "around here no one mentions pigeons out loud any more."

Eric Johnson Predicts Trouble If OPA Is Killed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 1.—Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, contended today that if federal price control were wiped out in the immediate future "business would be back in the national doghouse within one week—and I mean the last stall in the doghouse, too."

He made this statement to a reporter shortly before he opened the 34th annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber. Approximately 2,000 business men, drawn from every state, attended.

Johnston's position fell squarely atwart that of the National Association of Manufacturers, which has advocated the complete elimination of OPA after its present powers expired on June 30. It also indicated a divided opinion within the directorate of the national Chamber of Commerce itself.

Class A Softball Divided Into American, National Leagues

Two Nine Team Loops To Begin Play On Monday; Council Turns Thumbs Down To Suggestion For Lighting Of Park Diamond

Final organization of Salem's softball teams into two groups—the American and National leagues, each comprised of nine teams—with a 24-game season, climaxed by a Shaughnessy type playoff to determine the respective loop champion, was completed at the Memorial building last night as managers, league officials and city council's park committee met.

Harry Vincent, Fred Bleivins and Ned Massa, councilmen composing the council park committee, made it obvious to the league representatives that city financing of a lighting program for Centennial park was not possible this season.

The trio, however, offered to spur action to see that the city prepares an additional diamond on which the Class B league can be operated.

The two leagues were grouped to include the VFW, Ohio Grill, Mullins, Eagles, Leetonia, Sinclair, Electric Furnace, Jaycees and Sip and Bite in the American league and Bowling Center, Firestone, Saxons, Deming, Washingtonville, Salem Lunch, Italian Athletic club, Salem China and Recreation in the National league.

The two leagues will open play at 5:45 p. m. Monday with the VFW facing Ohio Grill in the American loop and Bowling Center meeting Firestone in the National league opener.

Mullins and the Eagle entry will play in the American loop at 7 p. m. and the Saxons will clash with Deming in the National loop 7 p. m. Monday game.

One league will use the northern diamond a week and then will play on the southern park diamond the following week, alternating throughout the summer.

Class A Leagues At A Glance

Here are the league lineups for Class A softball at a glance:

National League
Bowling Center, Firestone, Saxons, Deming, Washingtonville, Salem Lunch, Italian A. C., Salem China, Recreation.

Umpires Jim Jackson and Ray Reasbeck will alternate league work, it was decided.

It was agreed to operate under rules adopted by the managers until such a time as the newly adopted national rules are available for use here. As yet no rule books containing the recent changes have been published.

The schedule will be so arranged this year that the two leagues will play a complete season of 24 games and the four top teams in each league will then engage in a Shaughnessy playoff until a league champion has been selected.

The respective league champions will then clash in the annual city title series, usually held at Reilly stadium.

This is an innovation voted by the managers last night. In previous years, the smaller leagues, three or four rounds of eight games comprised a season and the respective round winners vied for the city title.

The only city league rule to be in standing after national rule books are available is the one allowing 10 players on a team. National rules are reported to have eliminated the roving shortstop, but the extra player will be maintained here.

FRANK JULIAN TO WRESTLE HERE IN SATURDAY MATCH

Local Pro Will Meet Dunlap; Another Former Samelite Will Perform

Al Dunlap, 240-pound Toronto, Canada, lad, will be the final opponent for Salem's "Toar" Julian at the Memorial building Saturday night before the local wrestler heads for the west coast and a circuit of matches there.

Julian, who weighs 232, is sponsoring the final show here to give Samelites a chance to see some top-notch wrestling again before he leaves this district.

The last match, during which Julian defeated Fred Von Schatt in a best two of three falls, was highly successful and fans were enthusiastic about future affairs.

Consequently, a larger turnout is anticipated this week.

Fred Bozick, 230 pounds, from Cleveland will take on "Vic" Tanski, 212 pound former Ohio State wrestler and formerly a Salem resident and an employee at the Electric Furnace Co.

Tanski, like Julian, is expected to draw a large local following.

The curtain raiser for the evening will be a 10-minute affair between a pair of High school lads, as in the past show.

The show is scheduled to begin at 9 p. m. at the building, Joe Kelley is handling arrangements.

Salem Hi Track Team Scores Win Over Warren, Struthers

Washed Up, They Were Saying

Bob Feller, speedball king of the Cleveland Indians, is shown in action in his no-hit, no-run game against New York at Yankee Stadium Tuesday, in which he downed the Yanks 1 to 0 with catcher Frankie Hayes' ninth-inning home run. It was Feller's second no-hitter in major league play.

Walt Corbin Shines Here In Triangular Affair As Cope's Charges Triumph

Salem's Quakers stepped back into their winning ways at Reilly stadium yesterday, defeating Warren and Struthers in the first and only triangular meet of the season here.

Salem piled up 66 2/5 points to 45 3/5 for Warren and Struthers 40. Coach Fred Cope's charges won six firsts, Warren five, and Howard Heldman's Big Red three.

Corbin's excellent leap of 29 feet 8 1/2 inches in the broad jump bested Quaker Dick Theiss two and a half inches, although Theiss' leap was the best he has shown so far this season in competition.

Quaker Captain Bill Ward led the locals in points yesterday, scoring a first in the low hurdles and third in the 220.

Mike Dugas of Struthers was second high man in the meet, winning firsts in the high jump, high hurdles and second in the low hurdles. His 15.3 in the highs was one of the best marks posted in that event here this year.

Corbin's 10.2 seconds in the 100 is the fastest time seen here this year, also.

Warren's speedy half mile relay squad posted a good mark of 1 minute 36.4 seconds in its event, the best recorded at Reilly this season.

Salem now begins workouts for the annual McKinley relays at Fawcett stadium Canton, Saturday, and then will swing into the county meet at East Palestine on the following Friday.

The season closes with the Northeastern Ohio district meet at Reilly stadium May 18.

Salem Hi Track Team Scores Win Over Warren, Struthers

Washed Up, They Were Saying

Bob Feller, speedball king of the Cleveland Indians, is shown in action in his no-hit, no-run game against New York at Yankee Stadium Tuesday, in which he downed the Yanks 1 to 0 with catcher Frankie Hayes' ninth-inning home run. It was Feller's second no-hitter in major league play.

Walt Corbin Shines Here In Triangular Affair As Cope's Charges Triumph

Salem's Quakers stepped back into their winning ways at Reilly stadium yesterday, defeating Warren and Struthers in the first and only triangular meet of the season here.

Salem piled up 66 2/5 points to 45 3/5 for Warren and Struthers' 40. Coach Fred Cope's charges won six firsts, Warren five, and Howard Heidman's Big Red three.

Corbin's excellent leap of 20 feet 8½ inches in the broad jump bested Quaker Dick Theiss two and a half inches, although Theiss' leap was the best he has shown so far this season in competition.

Quaker Captain Bill Ward led the locals in points yesterday, scoring a first in the low hurdles and third in the 220.

Mike Dugas of Struthers was second high man in the meet, winning firsts in the high jump, high hurdles and second in the low hurdles. His 15.3 in the highs was one of the best marks posted in that event here this year.

Corbin's 10.2 seconds in the 100 is the fastest time seen here this year, also.

Warren's speedy half mile relay squad posted a good mark of 1 minute 36.4 seconds in its event, the best recorded at Reilly this season.

Salem now begins workouts for the annual McKinley relays at Fawcett stadium, Canton, Saturday, and then will swing into the county meet at East Palestine on the following Friday.

The season closes with the Northeastern Ohio district meet at Reilly stadium May 18.

would extend north and south, instead of east and west as the present gym does. This would provide ample space for needs of basketball and other indoor sports and would include seating capacity for some 2,500 spectators.

"In the basement, under the new gym, the project calls for a swimming pool. This program would mean extension of the building south to the alley, providing a 72-foot addition. Possibility of another extension of the building back to Pershing st. to provide a field house also has been considered.

School Expansion Plans

The school building program is too indefinite to outline with any degree of certainty. A proposed plan, to cover a long-range program, has not yet been discussed officially by the school board.

Generally, however, the need arises from two causes—age and addition of some of the grade buildings and the expected increase in school enrollment within the next few years. Added to these is the present crowded condition of all school buildings.

It has been pointed out that the Columbia st. building is beyond repair and should be eliminated. Enlargement of other grade schools would be the answer, together with provisions for a complete Junior High school at the Fourth st. building and an addition to the senior High school building, together with the possibility of constructing a new grade building in the northwest section of the city.

Day Is Holiday

May day, characterized by Stalin as "the international holiday of the working people," is observed most widely in European countries and is similar to the September Labor day observance in the United States. It first was proclaimed in 1889 by the second Socialist International in Paris.

"In the vanguard of the struggle for peace and security marches the Soviet union, which played an outstanding part in smashing Fascism and fulfilled its great mission of liberation," Stalin continued.

"The nations liberated from the Fascist yoke received an opportunity of building their state life on democratic foundations, of realizing their historical aspirations. On this road they find fraternal assistance on the part of the Soviet union."

of service during the past five years. Reviewing the 1946 fund campaign which was conducted throughout the month of March, Chairman Bevan revealed that the Salem chapter surpassed its $20,500 goal by $19,769.

Following Bevan's statement, reports were heard from the following committee chairmen:

Mrs. Louis Bloomberg, knitting; Mrs. Stanton Heck, surgical dressing; Mrs. Arthur Lind, staff assistants; Mrs. Arthur Nicholas, home nursing; Mrs. A. Cessna, blood donor; Mrs. J. W. Asty, motor corps; Albert Hanna, nurses' aide; Mary Anderson, camp and hospital; Mrs. Albert Hanna, canteen; and Mrs. J. B. Atchison, sewing.

The blood donor, surgical dressing and nurses' aide committees were recently inactivated while the camp and hospital committee is on inactive status until the Salem chapter is assigned to another such unit.

At the conclusion of her report, Mrs. Atchison requested that members of some of the other committees join her sewing committee in order that a shipment of 1,000 boys' shirts might be prepared for foreign relief.

Reports Are Given

The auditor's report showed total receipts of $42,079.81 and disbursements of $37,969.60 during the past 12 months leaving a balance of $4,110.21 as of Feb. 28.

In her annual report to the chapter, Miss Hazel Linn, executive secretary, cited the ever-increasing number of cases being handled by local officials.

The number rose from a low of 375 in 1941 to a 2,265 total during the 12-month period from March, 1945, through February, 1946, when a sudden influx of returning veterans brought forth a variety of unexpected problems.

Welfare work rendered by local officials during the past year included inquiries concerning the well-being of servicemen; preparation of allotments; transmittal of death and sickness messages; news of births; assistance in business affairs; writing of social histories on maladjusted youths; verification of telegrams requesting emergency furloughs or extension of furloughs; assistance in procuring relief for financially hard-pressed families; aid in getting war brides to their destinations; aid to veterans in filing pension claims; filling out G. I. Bill of Rights education forms; getting certified copies of discharges; special counsel and guidance in personal problems; and assistance in securing evidence for claims.

The Salem chapter is one of the few chapters in the nation which aids the city in social service work.

Palestine is part of the Arab world. The committee said that if its report were accepted, the United States and Britain should: Make it clear "beyond all doubt" to both Jews and Arabs that any attempt from either side, by threats of violence, by terrorism, or by the organization or use of illegal armies to prevent its execution, will be resolutely suppressed.

In recommending against the Holy Land's becoming either an Arab or Jewish state, the committee said "the form of government ultimately to be established, shall, under international guarantee, fully protect and preserve the interests in the Holy Land of Christendom and of the Moslem and Jewish faiths."

"Palestine," it went on, "is not, and can never become, a land which any race or religion can justly claim as its very own."

Mrs. Louis Bloomberg, knitting; Mrs. Stanton Heck, surgical dressing; Mrs. Arthur Lind, staff assistance; Mrs. Arthur Nicholas, home nursing; Mrs. A. Cosana, blood donor; Mrs. J. W. Asty, motor corps; Albert Hanna, nurses' aide; Mary Anderson, camp and hospital; Mrs. Albert Hanna, canteen, and Mrs. J. B. Atchison, sewing.

The blood donor, surgical dressing and nurses' aide committees were recently inactivated while the camp and hospital committee is on inactive status until the Salem chapter is assigned to another such unit.

At the conclusion of her report, Mrs. Atchison requested that members of some of the other committees join her sewing committee in order that a shipment of 1,000 boys' shirts might be prepared for foreign relief.

Reports Are Given

The auditor's report showed total receipts of $42,079.81 and disbursements of $37,969.66 during the past 12 months leaving a balance of $4,110.21 as of Feb. 28.

In her annual report to the chapter, Miss Hazel Linn, executive secretary, cited the ever-increasing number of cases being handled by local officials.

The number rose from a low of 375 in 1941 to a 2,265 total during the 12-month period from March, 1945, through February, 1946, when a sudden influx of returning veterans brought forth a variety of unexpected problems.

Welfare work rendered by local officials during the past year included inquiries concerning the well-being of servicemen; preparation of allotments; transmittal of death and sickness messages; news of births; assistance in business affairs; writing of social histories on maladjusted youths; verification of telegrams requesting emergency furloughs or extension of furloughs; assistance in procuring relief for financially hard-pressed families; aid in getting war brides to their destinations; aid to veterans in filing pension claims, filling out G. I. Bill of Rights education forms, getting certified copies of discharges; special counsel and guidance in personal problems; and assistance in securing evidence for claims.

The Salem chapter is one of the few chapters in the nation which aids the city in social service work.

Palestine is part of the Arab world. The committee said that if its report were accepted, the United States and Britain should:

Make it clear "beyond all doubt to both Jews and Arabs that any attempt from either side, by threats of violence, by terrorism, or by the organization or use of illegal armies to prevent its execution, will be resolutely suppressed."

In recommending against the Holy Land's becoming either an Arab or Jewish state, the committee said "the form of government ultimately to be established, shall, under international guarantees, fully protect and preserve the interests in the Holy Land of Christendom and of the Moslem and Jewish faiths."

"Palestine," it went on, "is not, and can never become, a land which any race or religion can justly claim as its very own."
